SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

A Daily Menu for the Stout and Thin.

EAT AND—LOSE WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, one cup clam bouillon, 1 baked potato, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 cup beef, 4 ounces hamburger steak (broiled), one cup string beans, 1 cup cabbage salad, 1 baked Bermuda onion, 2 tablespoons fresh horseradish, 2 tablespoons fresh pineapple ice, 2 tablespoons canned cherries, 2 crisp pieces whole wheat toast, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1194. Protein, 315; fat, 223; carbohydrate, 656. Iron, .0222 gram.

If fresh apples are not available use dried ones. Four tablespoons apple sauce, be it of fresh or dried fruit, has approximately two calories of protein, five of fat and 33 of carbohydrate with .0005 gram of iron. The sauce should be slightly sweetened.

The clam bouillon, baked potato, creamed dried beef and canned cherries are planned for luncheon. No bread is provided as potato is served. Baked potato and creamed dried beef is a palatable combination. The cream sauce for the beef should be made with skimmed milk. If enough must be made for an entire family why not add more butter to the sauce for the members who are normal and save making two dishes of the same food?

The extra butter supplies the necessary richness for those who want it. Add after the "diet" portion is served.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, four tablespoons fish hash, 4 rice griddle cakes, 4 tablespoons maple syrup, one cup clam bouillon with 1 poached egg, 1 large baked potato, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 cup beef, 1 cup cream of celery soup, 4 ounces broiled hamburger steak, 4 tablespoons mashed potato, 1 cup string beans in cream sauce, 1 cup cabbage salad with sour cream dressing, 1 stuffed baked onion, 2 teaspoons fresh horseradish, 2 tablespoons fresh pineapple ice folded into tablespoons whipped cream, 1 cup puff pudding with 2 teaspoons sugar and 4 tablespoons cream, 1 piece sunshine cake, 2 whole slices crisp whole wheat toast, 2 tablespoons croutons, 2 2-inch squares corn cake, 4 tablespoons butter, two pieces rye bread, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 4006. Protein, 498; fat, 1724; carbohydrate, 1784. Iron, .023 gram.

Stuffed Baked Onions.

Four Bermuda onions, 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts, 1/2 cup boiled rice, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 4 tablespoons canned tomato juice, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs.

Peel onions and cook in boiling salted water for half an hour. Drain and cut a thin slice from one end of each onion.

Remove several sections from the center of each onion. These should be saved for a soup or served in cream sauce the next day.

Combine nuts, rice, butter, salt and pepper, minced parsley and tomato juice. Mix well and fill onions with mixture. Put in a buttered baking dish, surround with about a 1/2 inch boiling water and bake forty-five minutes.

Cover with crumbs for the last 15 minutes of baking. Brown crumbs and serve.

Total calories, 1751. Protein, 184; fat, 176; carbohydrate, 791. Iron, .0029 gram.

V. of F. W. No. 540 to Honor Grant, Amerization and Boy Scouts

Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in Union hall, Horace F. Ort Post, No. 540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will observe Americanization Day, in honor of General U. S. Grant's birthday, and in honor of the Boy Scouts, who will be present. There will be the essay contest on the Life of General Grant, by members of the Boy Scouts. The G. A. R., Spanish-American and American Legion Veterans, are all invited and will be there. Also at this time the Ladies of the G. A. R. will present the Ladies' Auxiliary to Horace F. Ort Post, an Altar flag.

There will be an address by Dr. C. A. Robbins, a Spanish-American war veteran, and a World War veteran. This will be followed by the serving of refreshments.

April 21 to April 27, is observed everywhere there is a Veterans of Foreign War Post, for the purpose of teaching and practicing patriotism, protection of the flag, and to take part in all patriotic movements, that in purpose and precept live up to the slogan of the V. F. W., "One Flag, One Country, One Language."

O. E. S. Observed

It's 27th Anniversary

Last evening in Masonic hall Dorothy Chapter, No. 371, O. E. S., celebrated its twenty-seventh anniversary. The attendance was large and the evening was greatly enjoyed.

A distinguished guest was present, Mrs. Nettie C. Tenner, Grand Secretary of the O. E. S. of Illinois, and her escort in the exercises was composed of Past Commanders of Dixon Commandery. The Past Commanders, in their gold braided trimmed uniforms, and plumed hats made a picturesque addition to the ceremonies. The floral work was also beautifully done.

Mrs. Florence Franks, Worthy Matron, had as her escort, the Past Matrons and Past Patrons and Mrs. Adolph Eichler read the history of the chapter, which was most interesting.

Mrs. Kittie Ballou sang an Ode to the Grand Secretary, in her usual sweet manner.

Guests were present at the meeting last evening from Sterling, Franklin Grove and DeKalb.

Mrs. Nettie Baggs of DeKalb, P. W. M., was a guest.

After the ceremonies a very tempting luncheon was served to all, the tables being artistically decorated. The hall had also been most pleasingly decorated for the occasion. The entire affair was one long to be remembered and a gala night for Dorothy Chapter.

CHERRY SISTERS ARE AGAIN ON STAGE.

The Cherry Sisters of Cedar Rapids are again on the stage. They are making a tour of Iowa towns and will extend their travels to many parts of the country. The girls are using a part of their old program but have some new stunts, and fifty ones, they say. These girls became nationally known because of their ridiculous and ludicrous performances. They are a burlesque on the stage, so much so that they draw immense crowds, and they are just wise enough to commercialize their awkwardness. It will be remembered they were in Dixon at one time and will ever be remembered because of their antics on the stage. The Cherrys retired from the stage wealthy, but are again after the money, and they will get it.

CONVENTION ILLINOIS TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—The next state convention of the Illinois Parson Teachers' Association will be held at Rock Island, it was decided yesterday at the concluding session of the annual conference.

CIRCULAR LINE

This three-quarter length coat may be worn with a white or black outfit with equal distinction. It is made of white flannel printed in black. The circular line of the coat is a new departure.

BACK TO THE DARK AGES.

Chicago, April 19.—Because they bobbed their hair four student nurses at the Cook County (Chicago) Hospital have been suspended until they grow long hair.

Recently an unofficial vote was taken on the county hospital and most of the 300 nurses favored bobbed hair. A dozen became indignant when Miss Mary C. Wheeler, superintendent of the Illinois Training School for Nurses, ordered all girls with bobbed hair to wear nets or false hair and forbade any further bobbing.

The 12 agreed to have their hair bobbed. Four carried out their agreement.

CHRISTIANITY.

Are you a church member? About 46 million Americans answer, yes. Sixty-two millions answer, no.

Such is the situation this Easter, holiest day of the year.

Whether church members or not, all of us owe a tremendous debt to Christianity. It has brought more good into the world than all other religions combined, past as well as present. And nearly all the evil we have is due to failure to live up to Christian teachings.

In recognition of all this, every one should make a special effort to attend church services on Easter, of all Sundays.

Easter, symbolic of the resurrection, is an excellent time for each individual to resurrect the best that is in him. Nothing will be more inspirational to this end than attending Easter church services.

MUSCLE SHOALS HEREAFTER.

It is said there is more power in Muscle Shoals than in Niagara Falls. With the greatly improved methods of power transmission now available, and improving right along, that power might be made available soon throughout the south. It might furnish all the light and power needed in several southern states for many years to come.

There is a growing feeling that it might be a mistake to turn over such an enormous power to one man or one business concern for so long a period as 100 years. This feeling accounts for the hesitation shown by congress in giving Henry Ford the lease he asks.

It may be granted that Mr. Ford is an honest man and an excellent business man, and means to handle this great national resource in the interest of the nation. It may be granted that the terms he offers are as good as the government can obtain at present, though the terms and safe guards seem rather vague. Yet recent experience with oil leases suggests caution in the alienation of public resources, even though the new custodian be a Henry Ford.

A century is a long time. Half a century, the limit of the power leases under the present law, is a long time. Though Mr. Ford may be the ideal master and guardian of Muscle Shoals, in the nature of things he can not remain in charge of the project for even as much as a quarter of a century. If a lease, then, is necessary, why need it be so long?

AIRPLANE RIVER-MAPPING.

The Missouri river is to be re-surveyed from Kansas City to its mouth, as a preparation for improvement work to follow the anticipated enactment of the Newton river improvement bill now before congress. The Missouri has been surveyed and mapped before, but its changing course necessitates alterations in former maps. The maps made by land survey are corrected from time to time by sketches made from boats. These methods are neither so accurate nor so inexpensive as the airplane photographic survey, which is the kind now contemplated.

The pictures of the river's course can be made in a week. They will cover an area of 900 square miles. A single picture will photograph a strip thirty-four miles wide. Overlapping views are taken so that nothing is left out in such a survey. When the pictures have been developed, experts from the engineering plane reproduction office at Washington assemble them.

This is one of the important uses to which aircraft may be put. In reclamation projects covering extensive areas such as irrigation, drainage work, road building, forest protection and countless other matters requiring accurate surveys and maps, the airplane photographer and map-maker can do in much less time for better work than the ground surveyor. There will still be plenty for the land surveyor to do, so that no one need regret that the airplane proves to be so well adapted for this special work.

CITY LIFE THE CHILD'S JAIL.

The apartment house is one of the greatest menaces to civilization, says H. T. Bailey, dean of the Cleveland School of Art. He gives several reasons, strongest of which is that the apartment does not furnish enough room for the individual child, let alone the raising of large families.

Living in apartments, children lose the education gained through co-operation in home chores and of nature study out where there are grass and trees and sunshine.

Thirty years ago, people were horrified at the mention of tenements. And yet cities are steadily congesting to the point where all will live in high-grade tenements—apartment houses.

The goal of cities, as now planned, seems to be streets lined with unbroken stretches of high brick apartments crowded as close to each other as the law permits. It used to be the custom to keep a strip of grass, the size of a living-room rug, out front. This is being done away with, apartments crowding the sidewalk.

Death lurks in the streets where automanics whiz by. No place for the kiddies to play except dangerous streets, sidewalks, back porches and parks that are miles away for most of them.

The alley, natural heritage and right of every red-blooded boy, is being eliminated by soaring land values.

The city is becoming a jail for the child even more than the grownup.

Every problem, however, breeds its own solution, in time. People usually prefer to make their homes in the suburbs. The handicap is transportation. Autos, especially cheaper makes, are helping a lot along this line. Rapid transit is in sight for the more progressive communities. It's badly needed, for there isn't a city in America that isn't at least five years behind its transportation needs.

A childhood spent in the suburbs or, better still, out in the country, is worth more to boy or girl than a large cash legacy later.

SECOND-HAND.

Auto dealers now have over half a million used cars "on their hands." The prices average around $300 apiece.

The dealers say that three-fourths of new car sales this year will involve "trading in" of used cars.

At least nine-tenths of autos are now sold on time, according to experts. Wearing out of the old and replacement by the new assure the auto industry of virtually perpetual business.

MEMORY.

For 60 years Frank O. Niles of Lynn, Mass., has kept a diary. He began it when he was 12. As he turns back to the first volumes, he must read things that he had entirely forgotten. Memory grows dim in a half century or less. How much of your youth do you recall? Probably not a tenth of it.

How much of this life will we remember 10,000 years from now? How much of it will be worth remembering?

Arizona is called the cactus state. So is the state of matrimony.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 6—THE SLEEPING BEAUTY

"If you want to know the truth," said the wicked fairy.

"Who else would you like to see in Once-Upon-a-Time Land?" asked Mister Muggs.

"Let's go to see the Sleeping Beauty," cried Nancy.

"Jack - and - the - Beanstalk!" said Nick.

"We can't be two places at once," declared Mister Muggs. "So we'll go to see the Sleeping Beauty today and Jack tomorrow. Come along."

Away went the magic automobile past seven gardens and through seven lanes seven miles long and there they were at the pearl palace of the Sleeping Beauty.

"Tap, tap, tap!" they went to her front door.

But there was no answer.

But suddenly they heard a loud snore from within, as pushing open the heavy oaken door, in they stepped.

What a sight met their eyes! Everybody was asleep—servants—lords and ladies and everybody.

"Well, I declare!" said Mister Muggs. "This is a pretty kettle of fish! Why, I thought that when the prince kissed the Sleeping Beauty and woke her up, that broke the charm."

When he married her and brought her here to his pearl palace the story said that she lived happy ever after.

"Do you suppose Beauty is asleep too?" asked Nancy.

"If you want to know the truth," said the wicked fairy, suddenly appearing, "It's just this. I came back after the Sleeping Beauty married the prince and bewitched both of them, and all their people. I never forgot that I was slighted at the christening. Never! And I'll never get over being insulted. So now I have put them all to sleep again for another hundred years. What are you going to do about it?"

"Waken them!" declared Nancy.

"You can't! It's magic sleep," chuckled the wicked fairy. "The only thing that can waken them now is a hair from the tail of the iron dog that stands in front of the Fairy Queen's palace."

With that she disappeared into thin air, leaving a little trail of smoke behind her.

Suddenly there was a whirl of wings and there stood Silver Wings, the Fairy Queen's messenger.

"I think it came by radio," And here

"We heard every word," she said. "It's a hair from the iron dog's tail."

So the three of them tiptoed to the room where the Sleeping Beauty slept and touched her with the magic hair.

Instantly the whole palace awoke and there was great rejoicing.

And the Sleeping Beauty and the prince gave a feast for the visitors.

I'm not sure, but I think the wicked fairy was invited this time and she got over being offended.

LETTER FROM ANNETTE ANDERSON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

MY DEAR MR. PRESCOTT:

Mrs. Prescott is quite anxious to see your baby again. She is getting restless, and she wished me to write you and ask you if you would come down here and bring him.

It's astonishing, my dear Mrs. Prescott, to realize what that baby has done to your husband's mother. She is quite mad about him. I've been wondering if it would not be a good thing to invite her up to see you. We could go to a nearby apartment house or hotel for a few weeks, and then I think she would be much more content to come back to the quiet and peace of her old home than she is now.

I'm growing very fond of your husband's mother, Mrs. Prescott. Of course she's self-centered, as old people always are, and narrow, as he comes her Puritan ancestry, but for all that there is sterling worth within her aged frame.

And now that she has a definite object in life, and that definite object is your baby, it seems to me that it might be feasible to bring the oldest and the youngest members of your family together again for a short time.

Of course, if anything makes it impossible for you or Mrs. Prescott to do this, you can write to me, and you may be sure that your confidence will be inviolate. I will make some excuse to keep Mrs. Prescott here.

I want to tell you, however, how much she thinks of you. All the love that she formerly bestowed upon that old maid called Priscilla Bradford, she has evidently transferred to you.

Of course, I know it is absolutely impossible for you to make a visit upon your husband's mother so soon again, and that is the reason I am asking you if it would be convenient for her to visit you. It would give her something to think about on her return.

She would see you and the baby in your own home, she would place you in her accustomed surroundings, and this means a great deal to old people.

Anything you may write me about this will be kept in strictest confidence as I said before.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
ANNETTE ANDERSON

NIGHT LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

Jack will be home day after tomorrow, dear mother, and we would like it very much if you would come and see us for a few weeks. There isn't room for you and your nurse in our little apartment, but if you will say will come, will arrange for you in the one next door. Think perhaps this will be better, for then, when you want to be quiet and alone, you can get away from us all. I'd like to have you come as soon as possible. I'm not telling Jack about it, because I want to give him the nicest surprise possible.

Your loving daughter

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Read Mt. 28:1-20. Text: 28:20. Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

"Therefore when we believe in Jesus we adopt his ideals at any cost. We find in him such an expression of the life of God in terms of human life, death and immortal spiritual presence as warrant the glad surrender of our lives to him, a living Lord and Leader in a great world enterprise."

MEDITATION: In the resurrection of Jesus we see the culmination of his wonderful way of living, that the life of love, of obedience, of ministry, is the life that God approves, and by approving makes possible the continuation of that life beyond the incident of death through the far ages. In Him we too have our resurrection into life eternal.

PERSONAL QUESTION: What is Easter's deepest meaning for me?

PRAYER: Eternal God, we pray that we may be conscious of thy presence with us. Let the fruits of thy spirit be evident in all that we do this day. In the heat of the day may thy spirit be our refreshment, and in the long watches of the night may we be comforted by thy presence, through Christ. Amen.

THE NUT CRACKER

A complete library has been installed in the Giants' club house.—News note.

Gowdy: Whadda think Emerson meant when he said: "Hitch your wagon to a star?"

McGraw: Well, it's a cinch he didn't mean you.

Young: They tell me this O. Henry guy scattered a mean flow of ink. Southworth: Don't show your ignorance. O. Henry's a candy.

Kelly: Say, who wrote that line about "putting a giraffe round the world?"

Frisci: Babe Ruth's tailor.

NEHE (repeating from Colonel Marlowe's work): "Comparisons are odious."

McGraw (gruffly): If you are comparing yourself with a regular pitcher they're worse than that.

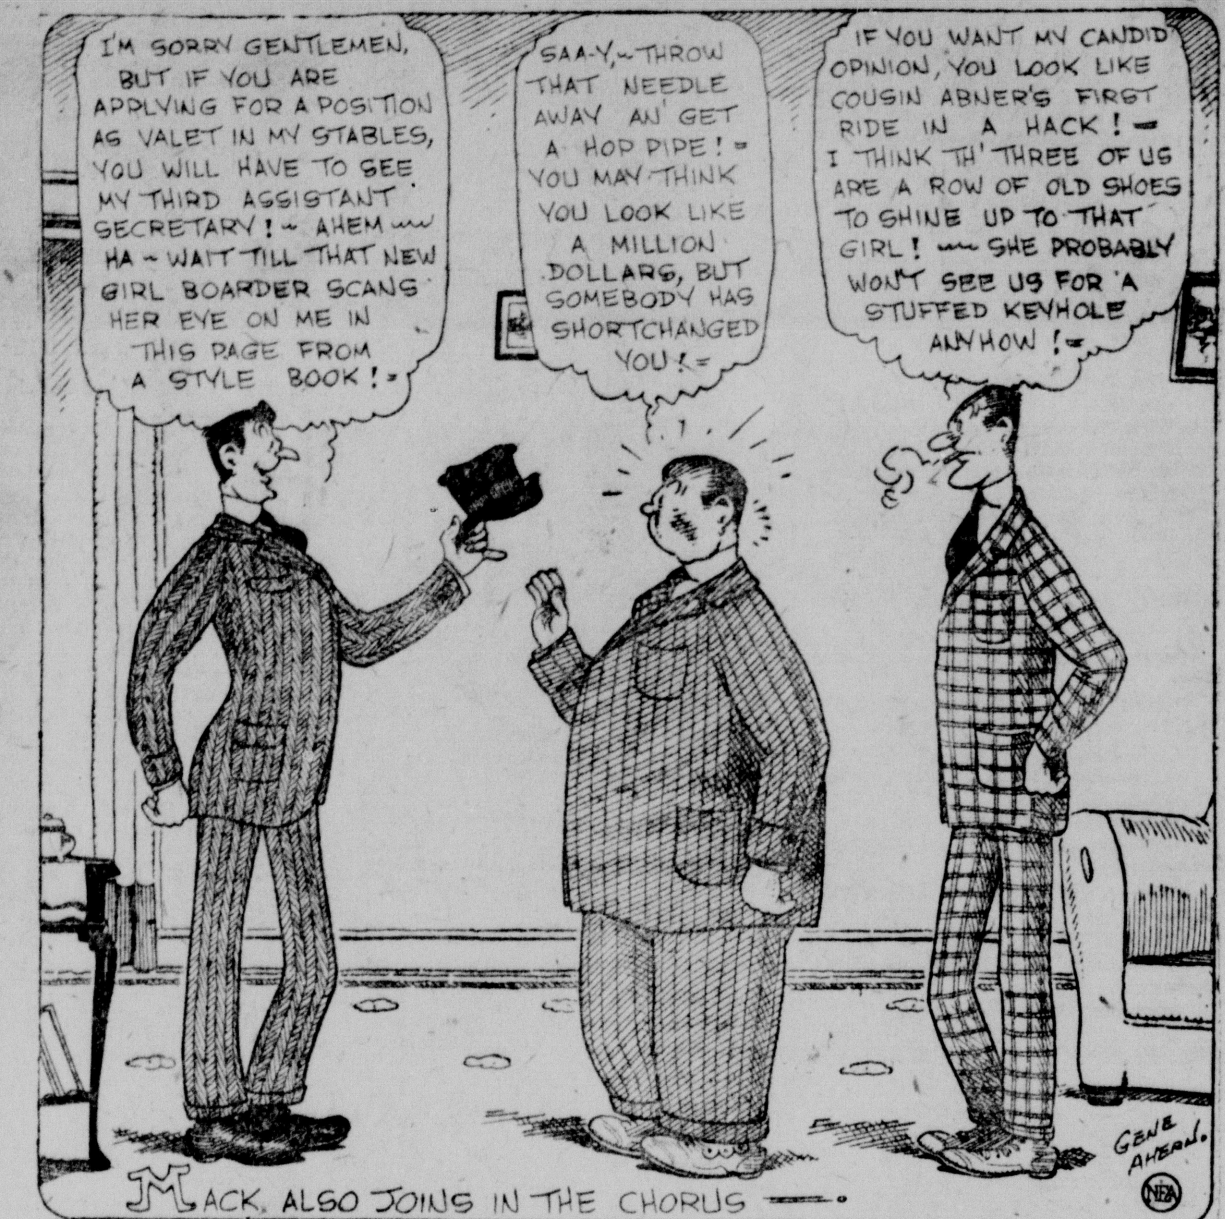

Mousel: "Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just."

McGraw (heatedly): Now, if you ain't satisfied with your contract you know what you can do, and if it's a brawl you're looking for, just step out here in the middle of the floor and put up your dukes.

Ainsmith: "All places shall be hell."

George (clearing his royal throat): This bally business of horseback riding, young man, it must stop.

Wales (rubbing his left hip reminiscently): I hope you aren't trying to flatter me.

George: It is high time you took a tumble to yourself.

Wales (protesting): But dad, that last tumble I took at Leicestershire was perfectly ripping. Indeed, I dare say I have never done a better one.

George (heatedly): Oh, pshaw!

Wales: Why bring these nosey writers into the discussion?

George: You don't seem to realize how my subjects are kicking.

Wales: Tut, tut! Don't mind the kicking. It's the throwing that gets you.

George (earnestly): Do you prefer the saddle to the throne?

Wales: Goodie! Let's tell conundrums. Now what is it that is red on the outside, black on the inside and goes bark, bark.

George (dare): missing the princely back with a short, choppy left hook! What I insist upon knowing is this: will you give up the horses or must I take them from you?

Wales: That would be a change from taking them off me, wouldn't it?

George (reading communication from exalted ruler of the Elks of British East Africa): "Understand prince has been thrown again. Please confirm whether he was out with American girl or sleazy chasing."

Wales (resignedly): Well, whaddya want me to do?

George: Give up these perious sports and go in for something less hazardous.

Wales (with regal finality): Very well, I shall get married.

George (exclusively): Er, hum. Well, perhaps, er, maybe you could find tamer horse. Wot?

HE IS RISEN.

All Hall! The glorious Easter morn.
When Christ arose at early dawn;
The bells ring out their joyous peal,
Glad tidings of the news reveal.
Let's all sing praises with the throng,

To one and all, both you and me;
We bore His cross most patiently,
So we, too, might like Him be

The Resurrection

1. And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

2. And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

3. And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4. And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away; for it was very great.

5. And entering into the sepulchre they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment, and they were affrighted.

6. And he saith unto them: Be not affrighted. Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified; he is risen; he is not here; behold the place where they laid him.

7. But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall you see him as he saith unto you.—St. Mark, 16.

EASTER HATS—HOW STYLES DO CHANGE OVER 60 YEARS

Miss 1864

The hat that knocked 'em dead in 1864. The Civil War girl wore an Easter bonnet with a crown trimmed in ostrich feathers and a few flowers. The brim was white silk underneath and black taffeta above.

Miss 1874

Miss 1874 found feathers just the thing for Easter, too. A soft burst of white ostrich plumes cascaded down a saucy brim of dark straw, with just enough brim to throw a shadow over the brows.

Miss 1884

Only by the wildest stretch of the imagination could you call Miss 1884's head adornment a hat. A tiny crown of silk and lace and a few flowers—such was the prevailing style in Easter bonnets in those days.

Miss 1894

The tiny hat found favor for a decade or more among the belles of the late 19th century. Miss 1894 is wearing a white silk creation to match her Easter costume, which was white throughout—even to gloves, shoes, parasol and veil.

Miss 1904

This style of Easter hat held the stage in 1904, when croquet was a favorite pastime and high pompadours were in vogue. A mere suggestion of feathers, an abundance of flowers and a wide brim of white, edged in black velvet.

Miss 1914

Only 10 years ago—but Miss 1914 looks out from beneath a hat that would look strange today. Ostrich feathers more than held their own from Civil War days to the outbreak of the World War, as can be seen in this Easter creation.

Miss 1919

Miss 1919 was not heartless, but someone killed a bird to adorn her close fitting hat of black straw. You will notice that, like the girl of today, Miss 1919 modestly hid her ears from view. Now we make the final jump and come—

Miss 1924

Right up to date! There is the spring hat that was worn in Florida during the winter and will be seen in northern cities in April and May. Wintering in the south has tended a little to "rush the season," but even Miss 1924 wore an Easter hat of white silk.

Obituary. From a St. Paul paper we secure the following obituary of Will Gaver, who was a former resident of this place, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gaver. Will spent all his boyhood in Franklin, having been born north of here. The following obituary will be read with interest by many friends of not only this town but of Dixon and Amboy, where he was well known:

J. W. Gaver, president of the Scaffolding & Rossum Co., died suddenly Wednesday at Las Angeles, according to a message sent by Mrs. Gaver to their son, Carl L. Gaver, 1855 Linwood Place, Mr. Gaver, who has been in failing health for the last two years, left for California several months ago. According to relatives and business associates, he believed his health had improved considerably and was planning a fortnight ago to return to his home, at 616 Lincoln Avenue, early in May. Then he contracted influenza and a relapse from that attack is believed to have been the cause of his death. Mr. Gaver was 63 years old and had been a resident of St. Paul for fifteen years, coming here from St. Joseph in 1909, when he became associated with the Komantz Gaver Co., manufacturers of leather. In 1913 the Komantz Gaver Co. purchased the Scheffer & Rossum Co. Mr. Gaver became president of the reorganized company, a position which he held to the time of his death. Mr. Gaver was until two years ago a director of the Central Metropolitan bank, residing on account of ill health, at the time of his death. He was a member of the Minnesota club, the Town and Country club, the Athletic club and the St. Paul association. He was also an active member of the Merriam Park Presbyterian church. Mr. Gaver is survived by his widow, who was with him in Los Angeles at the time of his death by a daughter, Mrs. H. H. Groat of Detroit, the latter recently a graduate of Dartmouth college; also a sister, Mrs. C. C. Penno, a brother, Fred Gaver of Chicago. The elder son, Carl, left Wednesday night to meet his mother, who will accompany Mr. Gaver's body home for funeral service in St. Paul with burial in Chicago.

OBITUARY

JOSEPHINE LAWRENCE.

Josephine Lawrence, daughter of George and Eliza Lawrence, was born at Melugin Grove near Compton, Ill., on the 26th day of February, 1878. Her early education was received in the schools of the community. As a very young girl she removed with her parents to Nebraska, but some years later returned to her old home at Melugin Grove. On Christmas day, 1895, she was united in marriage to James Allen Hutchinson and went to housekeeping in the same locality. Later the home was located in Dixon, Ill. In 1915 she was united in marriage to Sam U. Lawrence of Louisville, Ky., and during recent years has made her home in the south. From girlhood she had been a member of the Methodist church. While her home was in Dixon she was an active member of the Dixon Woman's club, the Relief Corps, and the Eastern Star. She retained her active interest in the Eastern Star until her death at Newport, Tenn., on the 16th day of April, 1924, at the age of 46 years, 1 month and 20 days. She leaves to mourn her loss her two children, Olive Leslie Hutchinson and James Sanford Hutchinson; three sisters, Carrie Fairchild of Idaho; Ida Phillips of Massachusetts, and Eunice Dixon, of Dixon, Ill., and two brothers, Burton Christiance of Iowa, and Harry Christiance, who resides at the old home. ## RECORDS SHATTERED BY DODGE BROTHERS

Number of Cars Delivered to Customers in Excess of Any Similar Period—Production Also Exceeds Previous Marks—Information is Accurate.

Since December 1, Dodge Brothers' dealers have consistently broken all previous records for delivery of cars to customers. Materially increased factory capacity and an unusual demand for their new line of cars has made this performance possible.

In December, January and February retail deliveries to customers were 32 per cent in excess of any similar quarter in the history of the business. Following this, retail deliveries for the first two weeks in March have been over 4,000 each week, which is the first time this figure has been reached so early in the year. Each week's deliveries establishes a new high record.

Factory production in December, January and February totaled 14,321, 25 per cent greater than the same months of last year, which was Dodge Brothers' peak for these months.

Daily production in March averaged virtually 900 cars per day.

Dodge Brothers is able to compile accurate sales information because of the co-operation of the dealers throughout the entire United States and Canada who send in a weekly report of all retail deliveries.

Through these reports they have an accurate detailed record of exact conditions existing in each sales territory. Their calculations are based upon the number of cars actually consumed by the public, as they believe this to be the only true indication of sales conditions. The constantly climbing delivery records coupled with increasing production lead Dodge Brothers to believe that the first six months of 1924 will total by far the greatest six months in the history of the business.

WHITE SOX TAKE LEAD IN LEAGUE BY BEATING ST. L.

Cubs Also Made It 3 Out of 4 from Cardinals Yesterday.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Scenes shift in baseball's "big show" today. Home teams remain undisturbed as road outfits exchange locations.

In the American League the Yankees leave Boston for Washington; Connie Mack's young Athletics test the surprising Red Sox in morning and afternoon Patriot's Day games; Cleveland enters Chicago and St. Louis invades Detroit.

Chicago and Cincinnati fight it out at Redland Field in the National League and Pittsburgh meets St. Louis. Brooklyn leaves New York for Philadelphia and Dave Bancroft brings his league leading Boston team to the Polo Grounds for a series with his former teammates.

Chicago Teams Won

All games in the east were cancelled yesterday. In the west both Chicago teams made it 3 out of 4 against St. Louis teams. The Sox now lead the American League but Boston, with one victory and no defeats tops the Cubs in the National.

Home runs by Gehmes and Miller were instrumental in the 6 to 3 Cub victory over the Cardinals who used 19 players. Rogers Hornsby's first homer failed to help. The White Sox, with Eddie Collins contributing a homer and two singles, bunched hits on Ray Kopp, and beat the Browns 5-1. Sisler hit safely again.

Carl Mays, pitching for Cincinnati in this National League debut, allowed the Pirate six hits in eight innings. He was relieved by a pinch hitter. The Reds won 3-2 by scoring two in the 9th, when Kremer, a Coast League recruit, weakened.

Indians' First Victory

Cleveland scored its first victory, defeating Detroit 5-3.

Ray Moore, southpaw pitcher, who came to the White Sox via the waiver route from Detroit, was returned to the Tigers, has been purchased by the Minneapolis American Association club.

Clyde Crouse, White Sox catcher, was summoned to Munich, Ind., because of the death of his father-in-law and Joe Burns, former backstop of the Shreveport, Texas League club got his

THE LAST CONQUEROR

Victorious men of earth, no more
Proclaim how wide your empires are;
Though you bind in every shore
And your triumphs reach as far
As night or day,
Yet you, proud monarchs, must obey,
And mingle with forgotten ashes, when
Death calls ye to the crowd of common men.

Devouring Famine, Plague, and War,
Each able to undo mankind,
Death's servile emissaries are;
Nor to these alone confined,
He hath at will
More quaint and subtle ways to kill;
A smile or kiss, as he will use the art,
Shall have the cunning skill to break a heart.

—James Shirley.

HELLO GIRLS IN STUDIES TO HELP THEIR ENUNCIATION

Practice Many Things to Help Service for Their Patrons.

"Number, please?" Did it ever occur to you that operators are required to participate in practice of facial gymnastics to aid the phone service of the community? An article in the Bell Telephone news of state tells of the enunciation and technique exercises which telephone operators study to improve their ability in the service.

J. L. Turner, supervisor of traffic methods of the New York Telephone company, has given many points which are to be considered by switchboard girls, and among these the most important are efficiency, conservation of voice and accuracy.

The little red lights on the switchboard come in fast, and operators are required to work with speed, avoiding repetition, to keep up the standard of service. Perfect enunciation being one of the chief aims, it has become a popular practice among the beginning operators to face that age-old aid to beauty, the mirror, in their attempts to perfect getting a smile into the service of the company.

"Operators of the Dixon office are very efficient," stated Manager Louis Pitcher, "and they are very eager to serve the public with the highest standard of service."

They Roll Their Rs.

One of the forms of practice specified by a pamphlet called the Operator's Voice is reading aloud. It is the little things which count and for lessons in clear and audible pronunciation of numbers, the English students of the schools would not go wrong listening to the phone operators of the city. Outstanding among the devices used in service is the use of a rolling "r," and operators get so that they can roll them to perfection after much practice.

A rising inflection is another outstanding trait which has to do with better service, for it is more easily understood. Humbling the crouches of thousands of subscribers who demand perfection of service and give only trouble on the rainy day of their disposition is an aim and usually the achievement of the phone operator. Coldness, indifference, discourtesy, ridicule and dullness are all emotions which must be shunned at the switchboard.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Theodore Tuttle waited in the prisoners' pen in district court, his face swathed in bandages. The deputy called Tuttle's case, crying in a loud voice, "plain drunk."

The judge looked at the prisoner. "Plain drunk, nothing," he said. "Highly decorated. I would say. One dollar and costs."

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

by RUDY AYRES

O NEA SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dolly a governess, is in love with her poor author, Robert Durham. When Nigel Bretherton, who has money, falls in love with her, Dolly gives up Robert and marries Nigel. The marriage proves an unhappy one.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I've fallen on better days since we met." He turned his eyes from her face painfully. "Do you remember how you used to laugh at me when I said that I knew my ship would come home some day? Well, it's come now. I'm not a poor man any longer. If you'd waited—"

He caught himself up with an apology. "I'm sorry—I shouldn't have said that. I hope you're very happy."

"My husband is at the front—he's been out there seven weeks."

"What are you doing, Robert?" she asked. "Mayn't I be interested?"

"I'm not an appointment abroad—I am leaving England in three weeks' time."

"She echoed the word voicelessly. "Abroad?"

"The Argentine—yes."

"It was nothing to her where he went, of course; it could never be anything to her again, but yet—she pulled herself together with a desperate effort."

"Well, I must be getting on."

Her voice sounded far away—stupid.

"Goodbye."

"He raised his hat stiffly, and turned away. He did not once look back, and Dolly went on, feeling as if she had to forcibly drag her feet every step that led her away from him."

It seemed afterwards that she must have stood about the street for hours; it was quite dark when she reached home.

The door of the flat stood open. In the lighted hall she could see Mary Fumival and the little maid servant standing together. They both turned as she entered.

"I'm sorry I'm late," Dolly spoke the words constrainedly. "I went for a long walk—it was such a lovely evening."

"She stopped. "Why are you staring at me so?" she asked, with a sort of dull anger.

"The little maid servant flung her apron over her head and burst into noisy weeping. Mary stepped forward and put an arm round Dolly."

"There is news—bad news, dear," she said. Her voice was kind, but cold—so cold. "You must try and be brave. Come and sit down, and I will tell you."

But Dolly did not move; she felt suddenly as if her feet were frozen to the spot where she stood.

Her voice was sharp—almost shrill. "I know what it is—I know, Nigel—Nigel is dead!"

There was a moment's silence, broken only by the little maid servant's hysterical weeping; then Mary Fumival echoed Dolly's words: "Nigel—Nigel is dead!"

But Dolly did not move; she felt suddenly as if her feet were frozen to the spot where she stood.

shaking the easement.

Nearly a month had swept itself away since that day when they heard of Nigel's death.

"Died from wounds?"

Mary wondered, as she lay back on the pillows with closed eyes, if she would ever be able to get those words out of her brain—her heart!

Nigel was dead; the brief chapter of his life was written and finished. A kindly comrade had sent back his few little possessions, they still lay on the table in the pretty drawing room across the hall—a few letters, a pocket-case, a broken pipe.

A clock on the shelf struck eight. Mary sat up in bed, and looked through the window at the drenched, weeping world.

Someone tapped softly on her door. She roused herself.

"Oh, please, miss, the mistress is not in her room."

Mary smiled involuntarily. "I expect she is in the dining room—or she may have got up early and gone out."

"But, oh, please, miss, her bed."

A tall man stood in the narrow hall.

He wore a thick traveling coat, the shoulders of which gleamed wetly in the hall light. Across the dividing space his eyes—rather hard eyes—were met Mary's.

She looked a pathetic figure enough standing there in her black frock; her face was white and drawn as she looked at him.

"Won't you come in?"

He followed her into the little room—the little room where the few small possessions of Nigel's that had been sent home still lay on the table.

Mary closed the door and stood leaning against it.

"I didn't hear your name," she said, "but I think you said you wished to see Mrs. Bretherton."

The man's hard eyes had softened a little as they rested on her face. She looked so ill, so sorrowful; somehow he had not expected to see this type of woman. He had pictured her as being so different. There was a gentle note in his voice when he spoke.

"I am David Bretherton—Nigel's brother. I only reached London this morning, and heard—"

He broke off, recalling the bitterness and shock of the moment when he knew that he would never see Nigel again.

Mary caught her lip between her teeth. For a moment everything swam before her eyes—she seemed to live through an eternity of desolation and misery in the little following silence.

How could she tell him what Nigel's wife had done? How could she let him know that any woman could so shame and forget a brave man's memory?

"I am David Bretherton," he said again, with a touch of impatience, "and you?"

"I suppose," he went on more gently, "are my brother's widow?"

CHAPTER VI
Nigel's Widow

IN the little silence following David Bretherton's words, a sudden gust of wind lashed the window with cold rain like a storm of a woman's petulant tears.

Mary's hands had fallen from her face and hung limply at the sides of her black frock; she stared at the man opposite her with big, dark eyes.

which she seemed to have fallen. She brushed her hand across her eyes; she tried to force herself to speak, even to smile.

"It's all right—Mrs. Bretherton has gone away. She—she couldn't bear to stay here now—now—"

She broke off. Presently she went back to her own room. She dressed mechanically; her brain felt numb and dead; she could not force herself.

She went to breakfast, and forced herself to eat. Her one great aim was to prevent people knowing the truth; to save his memory—the memory of the man she had loved.

Later in the morning she forced herself to tell the little maid a coherent story—that Dolly had gone abroad to try and forget her loss and sorrow; that they would hear from her soon; that she—Mary—was shortly going out to be with her.

The day passed like a dream. She was afraid to go outside the flat; she was sure that if she met anyone she knew her face would give away the secret she was so jealously determined to guard. In the evening she sat alone and listened to the angry sting of the rain on the windows.

It was past eight o'clock when someone rang the doorbell.

Mary sat listening with strained attention.

"Is Mrs. Bretherton at home?"

Mary had never heard the voice. She rose to her feet with a sense of coming disaster, and walked to the door.

A tall man stood in the narrow hall.

He wore a thick traveling coat, the shoulders of which gleamed wetly in the hall light. Across the dividing space his eyes—rather hard eyes—were met Mary's.

SEVEN-FOOTER LOST Greenville, Del. — Robert Henry Langshaw, 26, height, 7 feet 7 inches, is lost. Recently he took French leave of his mother, and the Navy department has been asked to search for him. His mother says he is "quite a reader, horseback rider, crack shot and a good boxer."

TEN CENTS PER LINE FOR CARD OF THANKS.

Evidently there are some who do not understand that Card of Thanks run in a newspaper is purely a personal matter and not news, and consequently something for which a charge is made in all papers. Seventy-five cents is the minimum price in the Telegraph, so if those wishing a card run would send the money with copy it would save all further annoyance.
